A therapy group gives you the opportunity to receive encouragement with other women facing similar issues. Early in the group we will explore pitfalls to avoid in dealing with your husband's downfall into pornography. You can't fix him, but you can support his recovery. Then the group turns to the real work of focusing on you, because God can use this current hurt to do a deeper work in your life. This is the only way to manage the overwhelming emotions brought up by your husband's pornography struggle.
